DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

 The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- Claim 50 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by GB880283.

'283 discloses a deformable sealing ring comprising a body and a retaining lip with a radial thickness that is less than that of the body, extending axially from a shoulder defining the body and having a thinned zone in the vicinity of the body which is defined by an annular groove (98) formed in the radial inner surface (92) of the sealing ring (Fig. 1; page 2, line 52-95).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- Claim 51 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mannella et al. (US2002/0158469) in view of GB880283.

Mannella et al. teach a set comprising: a deformable, sealing ring (39) comprising a body and a retaining lip with a radial thickness that is less than that of the body, extending axially from a shoulder defining the body and having a thinned zone in the vicinity of the body; a male tubular element (12) comprising a tapered male thread (45); and a female tubular element (23) comprising a tapered female thread configured to cooperate with the male thread, a first annular housing (34) provided in the female element in a form of an enlargement of its axial boring, extending axially from its free end to a shoulder and having a peripheral surface adjacent to the shoulder, and a second annular housing(32) disposed at an axial distance from the first housing (Figs. 1 and 2).

Mannella et al. fail to teach a male tubular element having a radially projecting annular rib beyond the thread with respect to its free end.

'283 teaches a male tubular element having a radially projecting annular rib (22) beyond the thread with respect to its free end (Fig. 1).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the male tubular element by adding a radially projecting annular rib beyond the thread with respect to its free end., as taught by '283 on the element of Mannella et al. so as to achieve a tighter connection between the two elements.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 27-49 and 52 are allowed.
